PROLOGUE

We seldom realize that our community, family, friends, and even ourselves are undergoing a lifelong metamorphosis. Midst our ever changing lives, Valley Central is not to be overlooked. As the year witnesses the passing of the four seasons, so high school sees us through four years of similar change. Freshmen are a new beginning, just as springtime brings new life. As the cycle of seasons ends, winter gives way to warmer times, and seniors approach the end of one chapter in their lives only to enter into the next.

The past year has brought many new faces. Several new teachers and a large freshmen class have become part of the Viking family. Also, a few students participating in an exchange program have come to Valley Central. They visit here from other countries to change their lives by learning a little of ours. Along with new school policies, many schedules have been altered in order to accommodate curriculum changes.

These changes affected all of our lives, and while seniors march on to graduation, underclassmen remain behind to learn together to "turn and face the changes."

The 1985 VIKING LOG is a valuable interpretation and illustration of the changes Valley Central High School is constantly encountering and understanding.

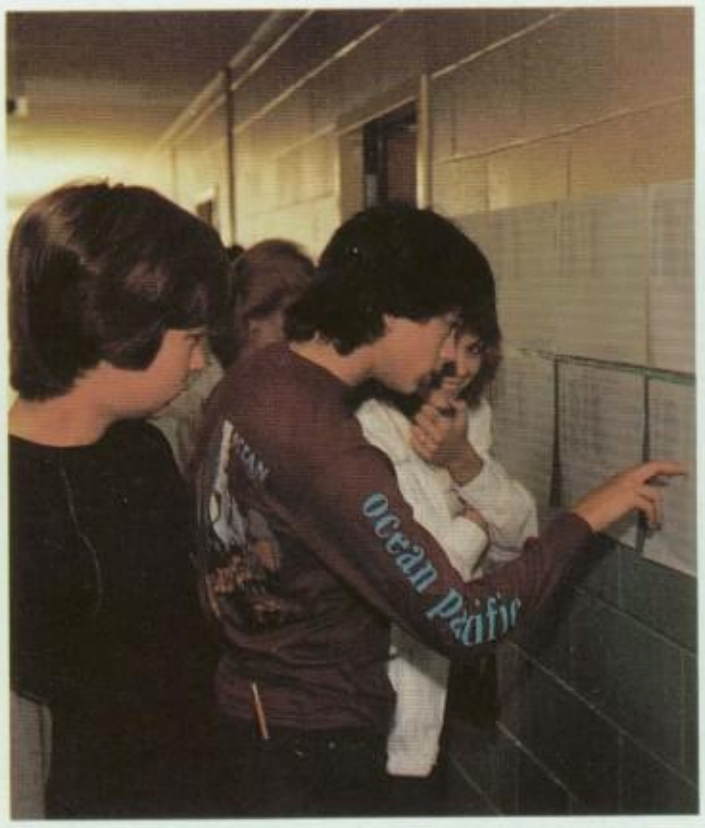
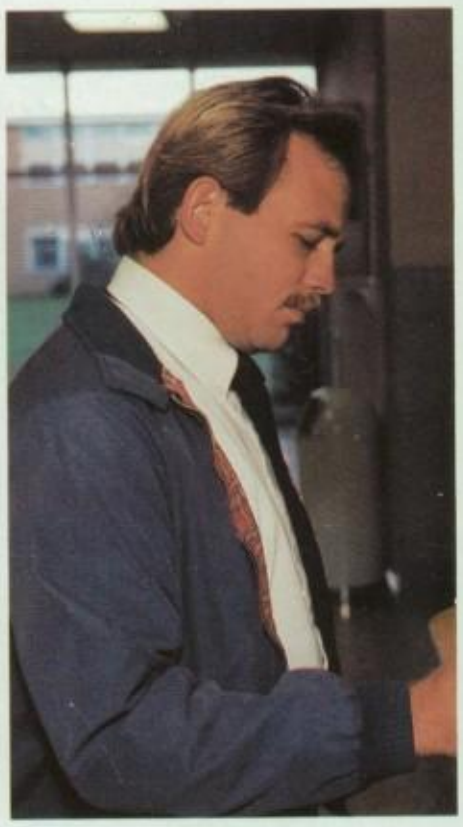
FIRST DAY AT VC

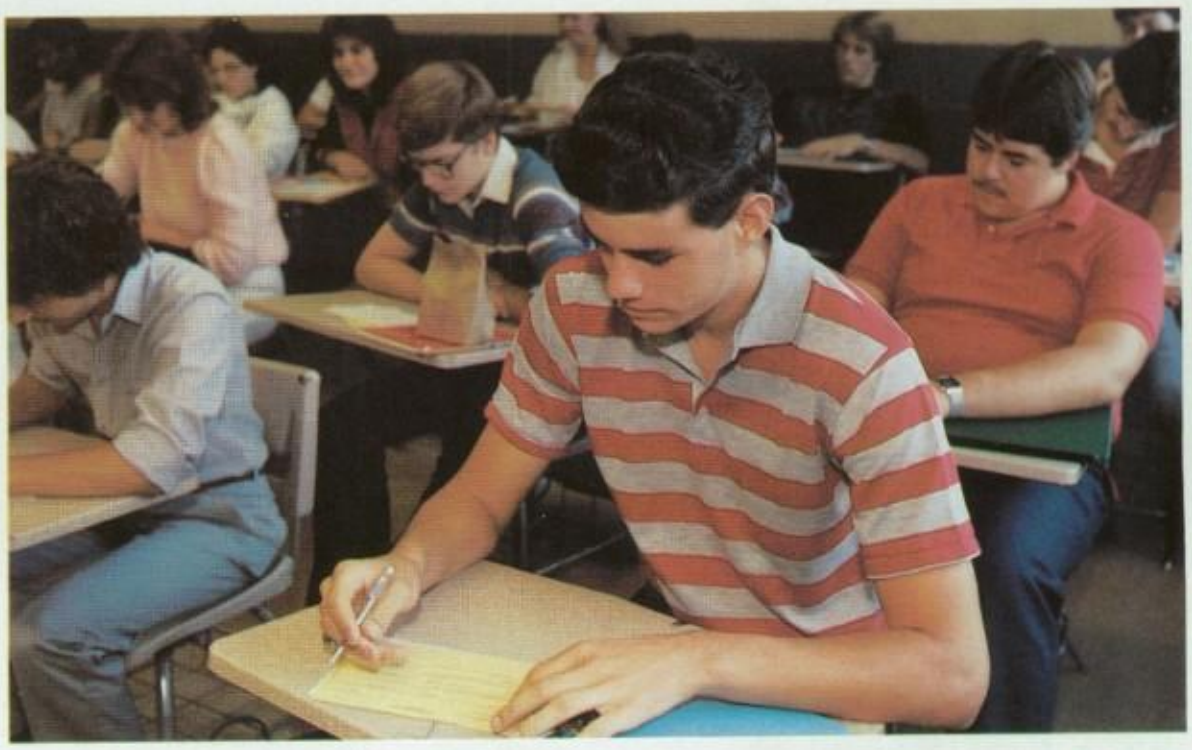
TOP: "Here we go again . . . another year at V.C."
ABOVE: Helpful Miss Nellie Brower directs Nydia Torres and Ginny Herbert to their homeroom.
RIGHT: In class, Kip Barber, Tim Besser, and Tad Bistor diligently fill out information cards.



Freshmen attempt to locate their new homerooms.



As Mr. Robert Zifchock signs in, he is anxious to see if the new car has arrived.



It feels as if a soundless starter's signal has been given. Breaking through the silence, doors clang open and the halls are suddenly filled with laughter and chatter of young scholars. So begins a Valley Central school day.

During the course of a day at V.C., each and every one changes several times. Students may change their physical appearance, mood, or even train of thought from one class to another. Football players take a break from practice to tackle some homework; members of the track team change quickly from running shoes and shorts to dress pants and shoes, only to race to their next class; singers, leaving the music room, will get a chance to use their voices in giving an oral book report in English; students talking happily with their friends in the loud, yet carefree, atmosphere of the cafeteria change suddenly when they enter their next class ready to take a full period test.

What really makes each day special and different from all the others is the simple contact between students in their exchange of thoughts, ideas, and news. Whether the topic of conversation is a current political issue, an upcoming social event, a class or a football game, it plays an important part in the contact that makes a day so unique.

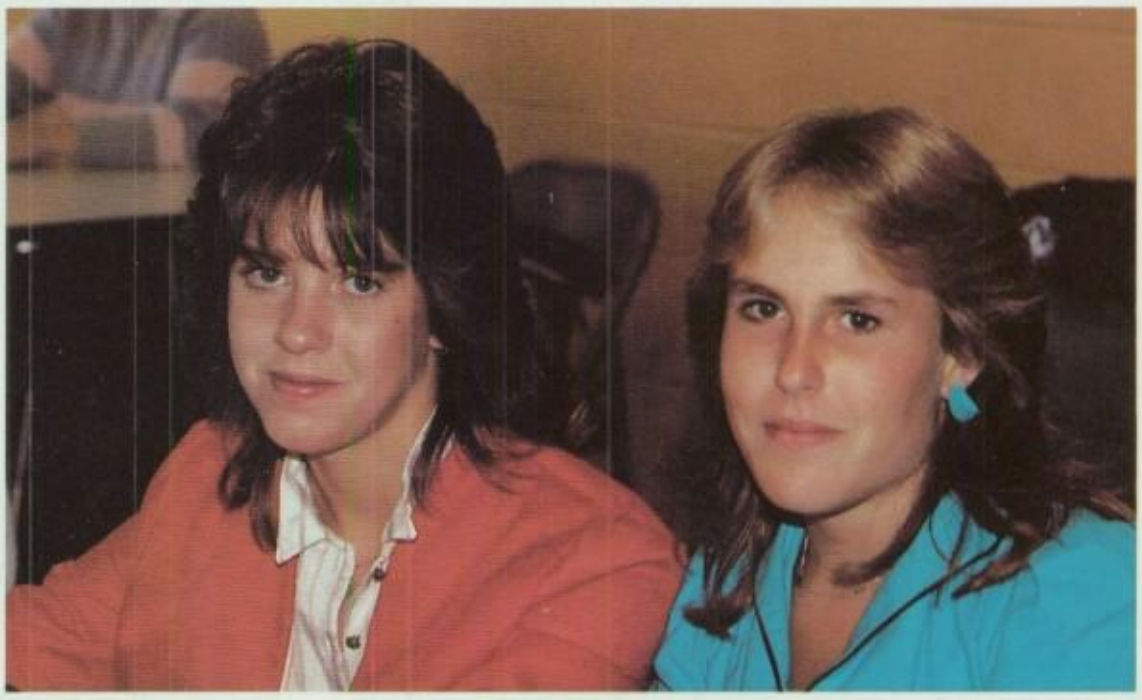
BELOW: "Sure we'll smile. We want our pictures in the yearbook," say Lori Quinlan and Chris Redfern.



FAR LEFT: In mechanical drawing, Jon Roepe displays his artistic ability at the same time that he proves he has mastered the use of a straight edge.

TOP RIGHT: "These potato chips are hard to open," thinks John Renstrom as he enjoys lunch at V.C.

LEFT: "I'm so glad that this day is over," says Holly Kaarlsen as she boards the bus to go home.

"Where is Mrs. Di Bello?" asks Sue Holbert as Mr. Di Bello dances with all the young ladies.

Anxiously awaiting their food are Doug Smith, Andrea Kniffin, Tami Valk and Tom Bondur.

LEFT: After the Ball is over, after the break of dawn . . . Where are we going?" asks Danny Peterson of Corinna-Rose and Julianna Bull-Brown.

One of the greatest changes in tradition was the combining of the Junior Prom and the Senior Ball. Although at first the seniors resisted the idea, they loved it after the evening turned out to be a huge success.

"And now it's time to come together . . . celebrate good times! C'mon, we're gonna have a good time tonight. Let's celebrate!" And celebrate is indeed what they did! Beautifully gowned young ladies and tuxedo-clad gentlemen danced to the music of Broadway.

The Junior-Senior Ball was held at the Sheraton Hotel on Friday, May 11th. The evening started with punch and hors d'oeuvres served on the terrace. Couples took time out from sipping punch and socializing to have the yearbook photographer take their pictures.

Amidst the freshest and brightest of spring flowers, a delicious dinner was served to over 275 people. The dance floor was crowded with couples all night.

The Junior-Senior Ball is now an exciting part of the social life at Valley Central. Hopefully, it will become a special tradition to be carried on for many years to come.

SENIOR — FACULTY TEA

"Don't add anything to this punch that shouldn't be there," an assured Ken Lang tells Jon Roepe.

On October 3, 1984, there was a rendez-vous between the staff of Valley Central and its Class of 1985. It was the twelfth year that sharp-dressed seniors have met and conversed with the administrators, teachers, junior-class officers, retired teachers, and other staff.

The atmosphere was both perfect and unforgettable. Brilliant leaves spelled out a welcome as an array of pumpkins, gourds, cornstalks, hay, and flowers made the lobby come alive. A delicious assortment of cakes, cookies, and tea sandwiches, set on shining silver, completed this festive picture.

The tea represented a time of change in the lives of the seniors. It marked the real beginning of the eventful senior year, and a passage into the adult social world. This definite transition was reflected, especially in the attire and attitude of the upperclassmen, as they mingled with their guests.

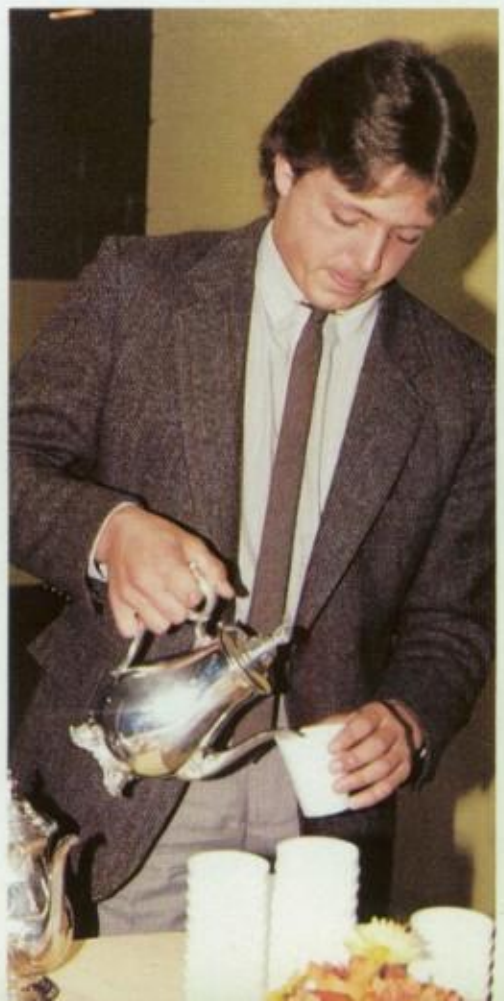
RIGHT: Helping prepare for the tea are Mrs. Mary-Jo Budd, Margaret Brown and Mary Jackson.
FAR RIGHT: Confidently pouring coffee is senior officer Bob Leary.



"Would you like to be the photographer for next year's Viking Log, Mrs. Ryder?"

"Everything has so many calories!" thinks Mr. Orin Segall.

Waiting for Kris Della Gatta to help herself are Greg Aldrich, Anne Gorton and Liz Lattimore.

LEFT: "Would I do better at Harvard or Yale?" asks Carol Nelson of senior guidance counselor, Mr. Gil Boyd.

RIGHT: Even clown Gail Zwart finds it hard to smile after the Viking loss.

Homecoming Game

ABOVE: "I'm tired of cheering. Take me Home!" demands Andrea Nadeau.

On the beautiful fall afternoon of the tenth of November, the traditional Homecoming Game was held.

Shouts of cheerleaders sounded and clowns ran through the stands with bright smiles. During halftime, the band played and the majorettes twirled to their tunes as the candidates for queen toured the track in their Corvettes.

The excitement in the air was electrifying. Packed stands were practically rocking with the enthusiasm of Valley Central fans urging the team on.

Playing superbly, the Vikings were leading 12 to 7 until the last three minutes when the Bushmen scraped by and won the game. As the game drew to a close, the crowd left with a mixture of emotions. There was disappointment in the loss, but even more importantly, there was elation at the determination and teamwork of the Vikings.

MISS LENA LEASE

BELOW: One of Miss Lena Lease's dearest friends at V.C. is Norma Ancona who is always there to lend a helping hand.

DEDICATION

Miss Lena Lease has been an important part of Valley Central for many years. She has touched many of our lives through her own selfless dedication to students and teaching.

Over forty years ago, Miss Lease, who now acts the part of the confident "little Italian grandmother," departed Newburgh on a bus headed for Lincoln Memorial University in Harrogate, Tennessee, where she earned her Bachelor's degree. She had worked one year in a dress factory to pay for this education. Later, she attended St. Lawrence University, Canton, New York to obtain her Master's. She was shy and uncertain in those days, and not nearly as confident as she appears now.

After college, she was ready for her lifelong dream — to teach school. Her first position was in her beloved North Country near Watertown, New York. She first taught at Oswegatchie Union School and after centralization, at Clifton-Fine at Star Lake. It was there that she advised her first yearbook. She had such an influence on the students of the North Country that to this day, they still invite her to their class reunions.

In September of 1959, Lena Lease arrived at Valley Central where she taught English to tenth and twelfth grade students, advised the yearbook and regaled the students with stories of her travels to Europe and her best Italian recipes.

In June of 1977, she retired from her official teaching position, but by no means did she retire from her active role in Valley Central life. When a yearbook advisor was needed a short time later, Miss Lease resumed her old role and continued to teach students how to do layouts, write captions and compose creative, memorable yearbooks.

While she is a skilled teacher and advisor, Miss Lease is also a talented business woman and active community member. She is president of Lloyd's Travel Log and on the board of directors of the National Temple Hill Association and active in the Business and Professional Women organization. Planning vacations for people, gourmet cooking, painting and quilting keep her busy, but not so busy that she can't travel back and forth to Europe two or three times a year.

We owe Miss Lease a debt of gratitude for the twenty-nine yearbooks she has done, the many delicious Italian meals she has prepared for us, her thirty-three years as teacher and friend, and her lifetime of service. Miss Lease, you are an unforgettable part of our lives and for this reason we proudly dedicate the 1985 Viking Log to you.

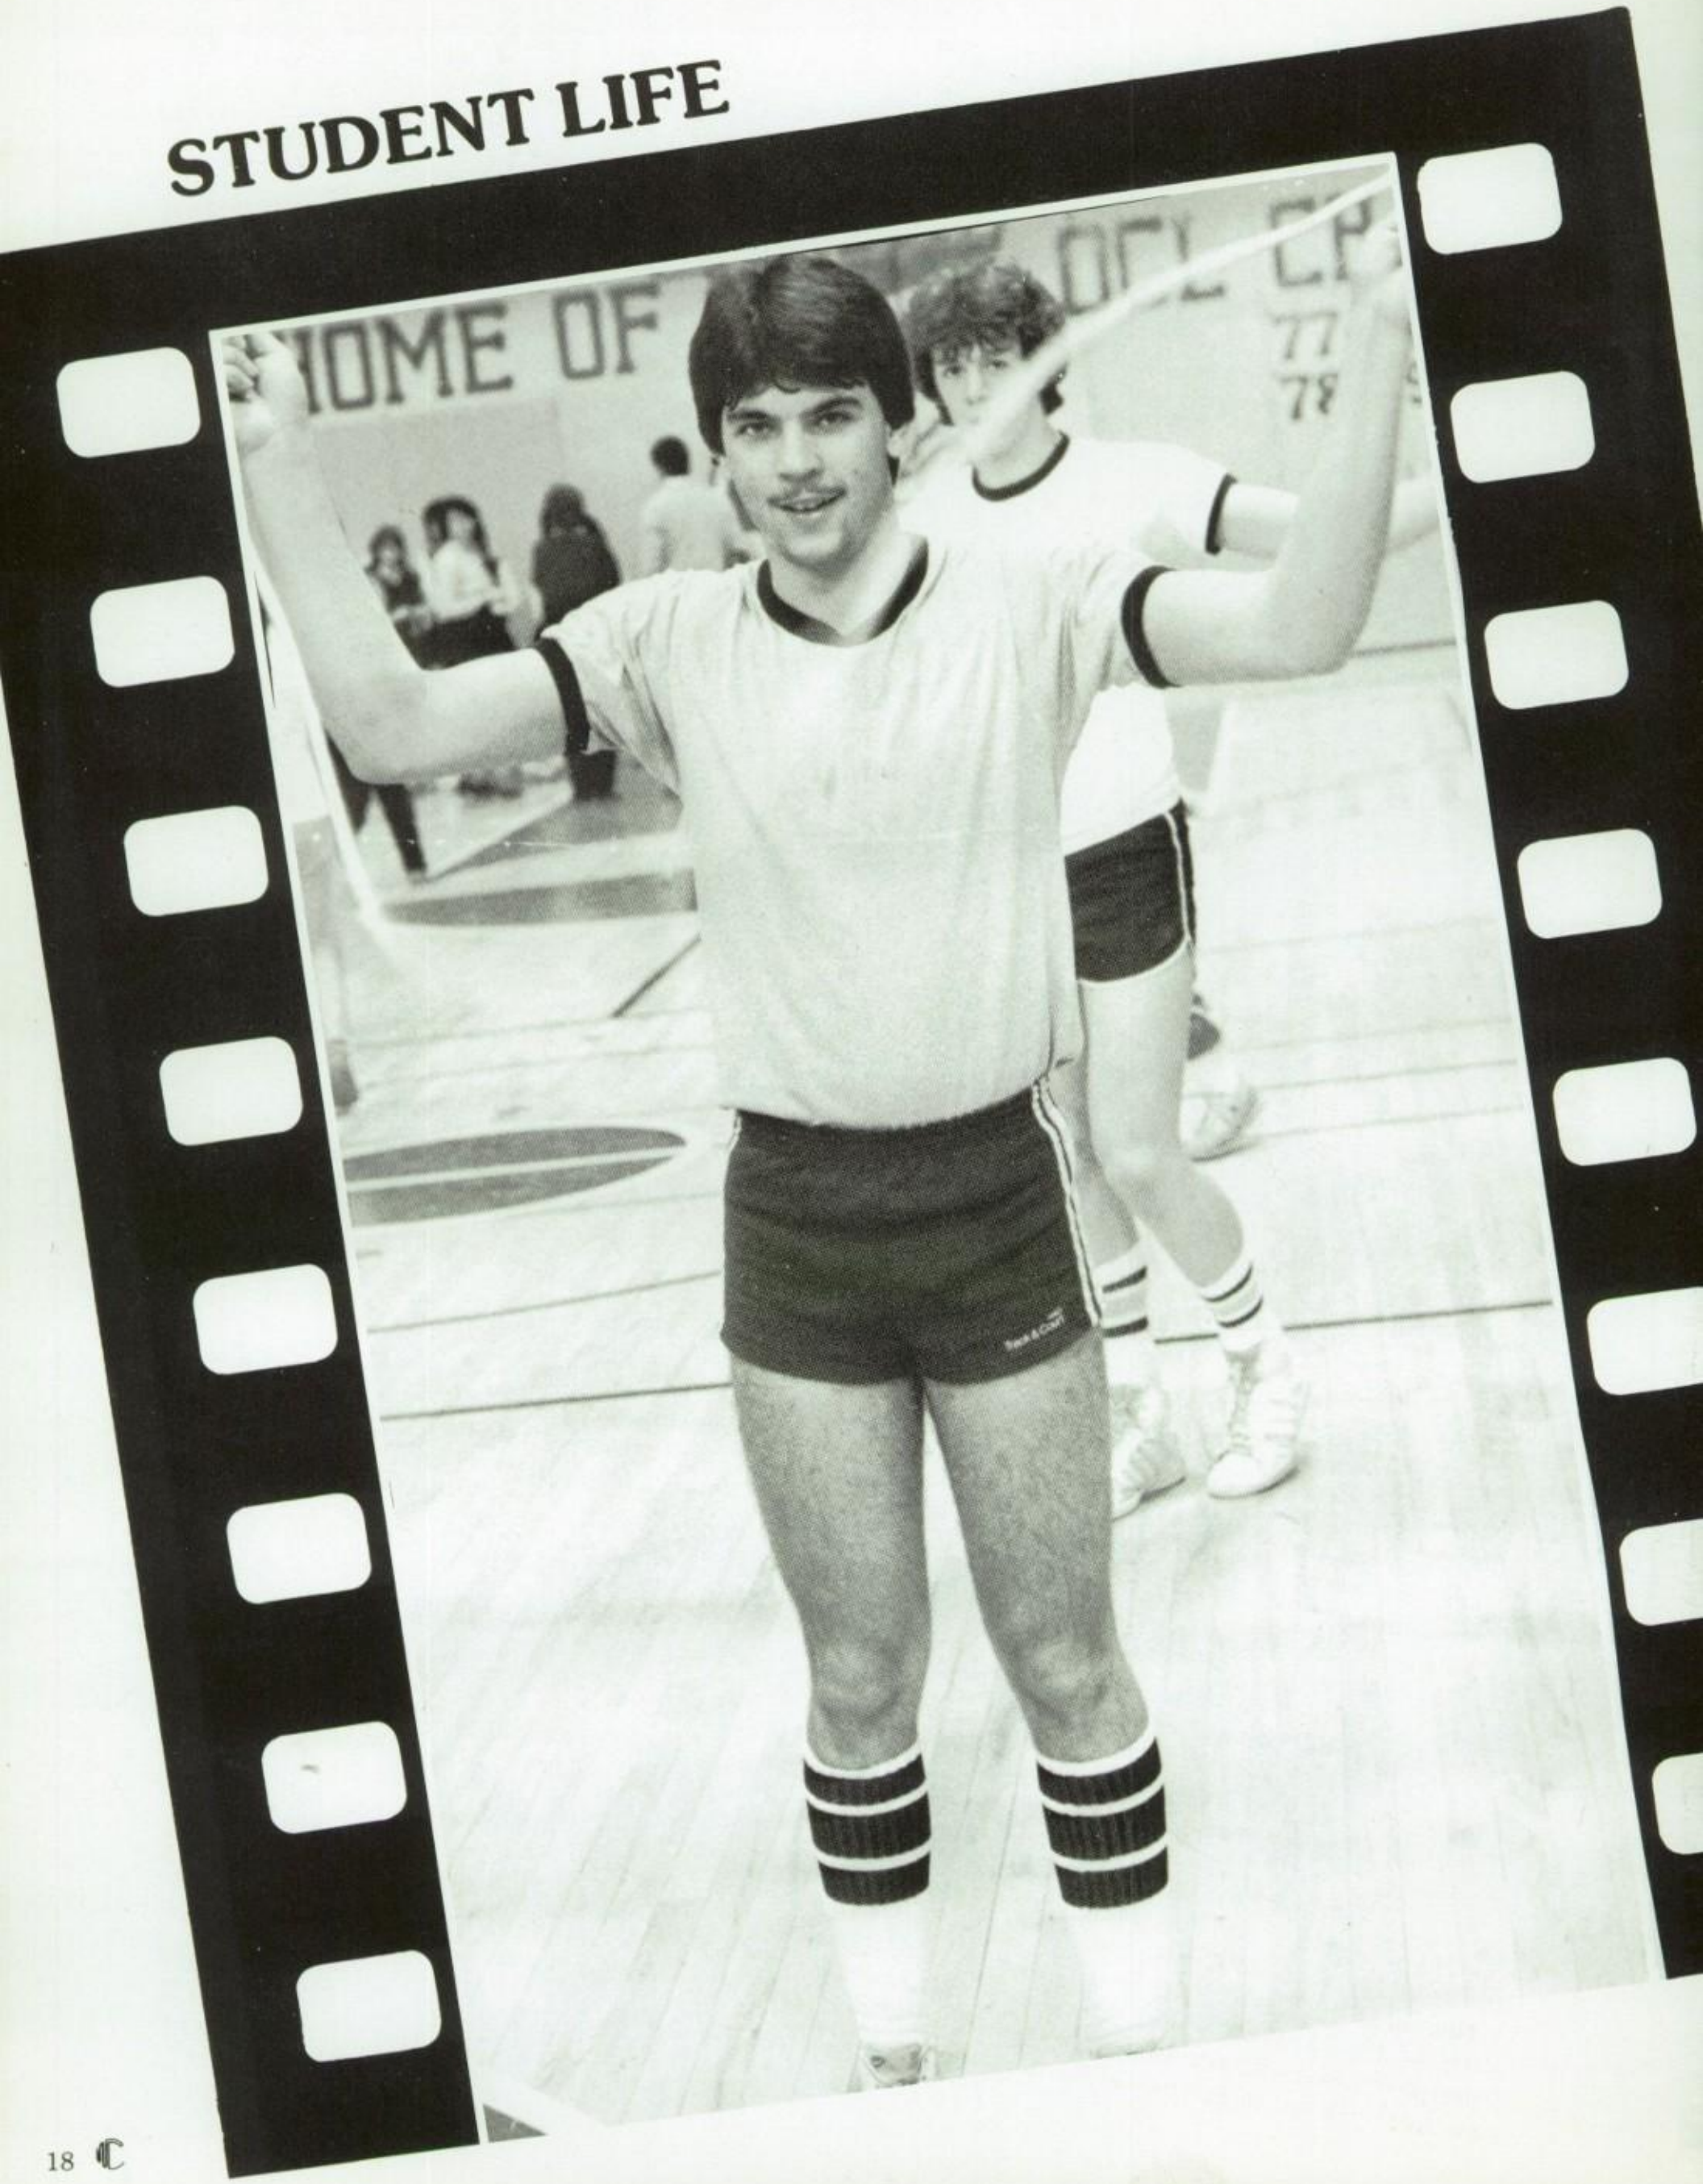
STUDENT LIFE



"Variety is the spice of life" seems to be the motto of students at Valley Central. Pens are dropped and books are closed to change to sports uniforms or to begin working on a council project. Seniors busied themselves with many differing activities. The Senior-Faculty Tea and the Senior Dinner presented times for socializing and enjoying one's senior status. Perhaps the high point of the year, the newly combined Junior-Senior Ball was a great success. Besides these events that were held merely for the purpose of entertainment, the seniors also organized the Blood Drive. This Blood Drive encouraged everyone to show their unselfishness in the giving of life.

Under the leadership of SGA, the entire student body cooperated to produce a successful First Dance, an exciting Homecoming, complete with decorative hall displays, and a lively St. Valentine's Day Dance.

The four classes also participated in two efforts to help eliminate hunger: the Canned Food Drive, to help families in the surrounding area, and the Ethiopian Fundraiser, to raise money for the starving millions in Ethiopia.

Other activities which sparked the enthusiasm of the underclassmen were the Freshman and Sophomore Socials, the Junior magazine sale, and the Feast of the Three Kings, which was sponsored by the Spanish Honor Society.

All of these events provided entertainment and a change from the daily routine of school work. They gave us a chance for growth and enhanced our individual personalities, giving us alternatives to an otherwise monotonous schedule.

There's always something to smile about!

FACES, FACES

Faces are as individual as the people. A variety of emotions and expressions reveal the students' diversified personalities. The moods and expressions shift continually, shedding light on the true essence of life at V.C.

SCHOLARS, SCHOLARS

Throughout the years, many Valley Central students have shown the fine academic qualities which qualify them as scholars. A scholar can basically be described as someone with a love of learning and a hunger for knowledge and understanding. He constantly seeks change and adapts himself to the changing world around him. In the words of Jawaharlal Nehru, "The basic fact of today is the tremendous pace of change in human life." The V.C. scholars show that they are able to endure and thrive on this change.

In 1985, several of our students have distinguished themselves as having these admirable qualities. Twenty-seven seniors were winners of Regents College Scholarships this year. In addition, there were two winners of Letters of Commendation and a Finalist in the National Merit Scholarship Competition. Those seniors who did exceptionally well on their PSAT's were chosen as members of the Orange County Enrichment Program, and the school's four honor societies also had a large membership this year. The total of these groups of people demonstrate the high values of academic excellence and scholarship at Valley Central High School and the ever changing quest for new ideas and understanding.

SISS! BOOM! BAH!

One of the many changes which occurred in our sports department was the return of the pep rally this year. On Friday, November 9, 1984, this diversion was greeted enthusiastically by the students. When the football teams entered the gym, the cheering began. Though the freshmen and sophomores cheered hard, the real screamers were the seniors and juniors, with the latter winning the trophy for first place. There was even a bonfire later that night.

The second pep rally, which took place on Wednesday, January 30, 1985, was for the variety of winter sports, especially the boys' varsity basketball team who played Pine Bush that night. This time, the seniors, in their shouting out, out-shouted the underclassmen.

"Now I should try it with a basketball," smiles Lori Schick.

"One, two . . . I can't keep this up much longer," pant Dave Hyun and Rick Anthonisen.

HEALTHY BODY

In an aggressive game of line soccer, Suzanne Soriano and Carrie Capozzoli battle for the ball as Joanne Bunora and Christine Thomas look on.

Many of the students at Valley Central adhere to the adage of a healthy mind and body. With the ring of the 2:10 bell, the students then pursue the health of their bodies.

Some of the students can be found in the basement "pumping iron" while others prefer to go outside and exercise in the fresh air. Still others prefer to go home and indulge in pickup games with friends and neighbors. If a person wants, they can almost always find someone to throw a frisbee with, or maybe play a little one-on-one.

As the seasons change, so do the sports the students participate in. In the fall, the sports in vogue are football and soccer. When winter arrives, the people move inside to play basketball and volleyball. But even as the cold persists, many people refuse to move inside. Instead, they go skiing, sleigh riding and ice-skating. With the coming of spring and nice weather, the students move to the diamonds and courts. There, they strive for excellence in softball, baseball, and tennis.

The change from strengthening knowledge in the classroom to building muscles on the playing field is an integral part of life at Valley Central.

FEED THE WORLD

Three days before Thanksgiving, something wonderful happened at Valley Central. It was something that showed the true spirit of the students and faculty. It was the drive to raise money to help the famine victims in Ethiopia.

Mrs. Margaret Kennedy proposed the project to the school, and once it was put into action, there was no stopping the generosity of the VC family. Posters were made depicting the horrible situation occurring in the African country and playing on the guilt of the people in the school, in order to stir up their emotions. Students and teachers were asked to donate seventy-five cents, the price of one school lunch, but everyone gave as much as he could spare.

After the students and faculty members gave their money, they received a star to show that they contributed. People were thrilled to be helping with a good cause and were going around asking other people, "Do you have your star yet?" There were also gold star homerooms, which were the homerooms in each grade to have a one-hundred percent donation rate. The first gold-star homerooms were Mr. Calvey's seniors (109), Mrs. Greenly's juniors (104), Mr. Mooney's sophomores (229), and Mr. DiLorenzo's freshmen (203).

Another way that students and faculty contributed to this cause was by counting the money that was donated. All together, $1600 was raised for the Ethiopian fund. This showed the compassion, willingness to help, and the special nature of everybody in Valley Central.

At the end of the campaign, two posters were put up in the lobby, thanking everybody who participated in the campaign and congratulating everyone for a job well done.

Homecoming nominees Chris Palffy and Jill Secor, along with Robin Long and Brian Sharp, share a romantic dance together.

1...2...3...DIP!

Dances have always been an exciting event at Valley Central. Preparing for them and cleaning-up afterward have always proven worthwhile.

The first S.G.A. dance was no exception. Only a few weeks into the year and already students longed for the entertainment, socializing, and fun times found at school dances. Everyone kicks off his shoes and moves to the rhythm of the music.

Homecoming was the occasion of the next dance. Although formal in attire, students were still able to enjoy themselves and dance to their heart's content.

The theme of the third dance topped even that of Homecoming. This was the Valentine's Day Dance. What better day to have a Valentine's Day Dance than Valentine's Day? With the help of careful planning and February 14th conveniently before a four-day weekend, that was possible.

Adding to the atmosphere were red and white streamers as well as outfits. Cupid's arrow had struck. Couples embraced and danced the night away while others enjoyed heart-shaped cookies along with many other refreshments. It was a night to remember as was each dance held this year.

Leading the way to the dance floor is Gail Zwart.

"A cold soda sure hits the spot," remarks Jim Collins after a night of dancing.

DECKING THE HALLS

ABOVE: "Class is easier than doing this," comments Bob Hamilton as he and John Bittner load the truck.

The true spirit of the holiday season was exemplified by the entire Valley Central family.

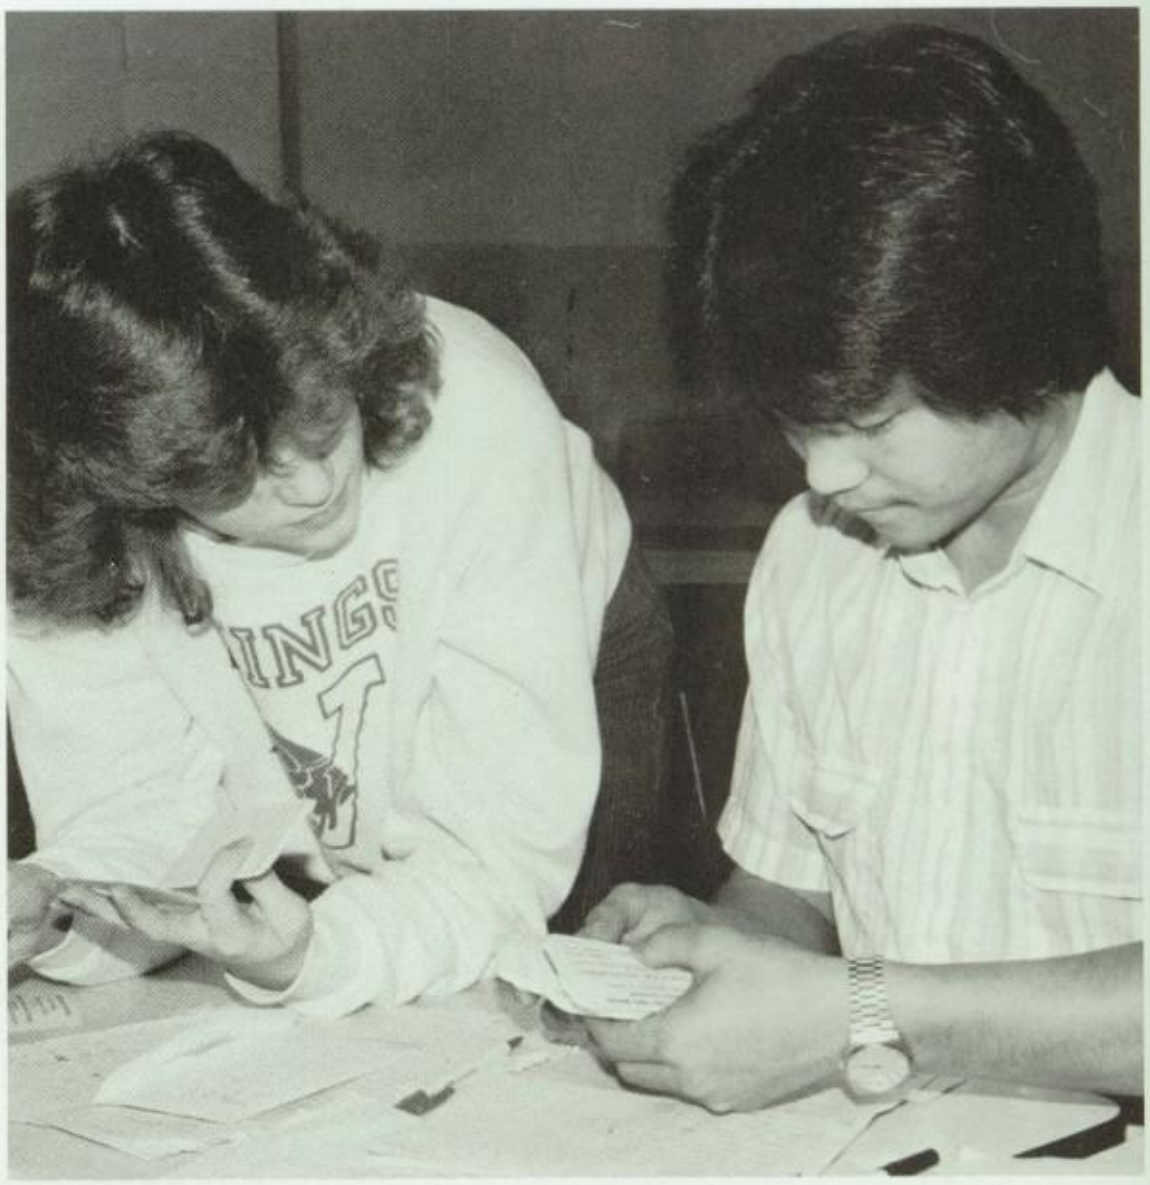
Continuing a tradition that began over two decades ago, V.C. students rallied together and brought in canned, non-perishable food for this year's Food Drive. From December 5th to the 20th, over a ton of edibles were collected and distributed by Mrs. Ida Ruscitti, through the Salvation Army. The senior class set a good example by gathering the greatest number of cans.

The Christmas tree displayed in the lobby shone brightly, symbolizing the general feeling of "Peace on earth, good will to men . . ." For a change of pace, this year the Senior Council decorated the tree in a unique way, using photographs from years past as ornaments.

On the day prior to Christmas vacation, carolers joined hands and encircled the tree. They sang out loud and strong, harmonizing with the melody "Joy to the World . . ."

LA FIESTA DE LOS TRES REYES

Dave Hyun gives Andrea Kniffin tickets she must sell.



The annual Feast of the Three Kings Dinner, held on January 5, 1985, was an insurmountable accomplishment for the entire Sociedad Honoraria de Espanol. Elaborate and colorful decorations transformed the ordinary, bleak cafeterias into warm dining rooms. For the first time, SHS members created the traditional pinata, adding a more festive flavor to the atmosphere. The succulent buffet included a variety of ethnic foods ranging from lasagna to "arroz con pollo." Kip Barber, Andy Brinckerhoff, and Mike Houser donned the crowns of kings and paraded through the cafeterias. Once again, La Fiesta de Los Tres Reyes was a successful and profitable event.

LEFT: "I'm bored! Come jump with me!" pleads Kristine Manuele.

On February 25, many Valley Central students showed that their hearts were in the right place as they gathered in the gym to donate their time and energy to the American Heart Association. The mood of the day was one of fun and excitement which was evident in the enthusiastic participants' faces. These same faces, however, were also filled with expressions of pride in what they were doing for their fellow man.

Divided anywhere from groups of one to groups of thirty, the energetic students jumped continuously for three full hours. It was a great time to be with friends, get some exercise, and make money for a truly worthy cause.

At the end of the day, although exhausted, all the participants left with a good feeling for what they had accomplished. The three short hours that they had spent jumping would add up to thousands of dollars to aid heart research and help countless numbers of people.

LIFE AFTER 2:10

What happens after the 2:10 bell rings and these hallowed halls are suddenly empty? Where do all the students go? Believe it or not there is life after V.C. This afterlife is a combination of fun, work, and family life.

Many students are employed with after school jobs. They can be found in supermarkets, restaurants, and local businesses. However, firmly believing in the old adage "all work and no play . . .," the students also use every available opportunity to live it up. Friday and Saturday nights often find groups gathering at movie theaters or parties. These carefree atmospheres give students a chance to socialize without the pressures of school and work.

Through it all, moments of quiet time and relaxation are set aside to spend with family. Family trips, dinners and even chores play a role in personal development and naturally are an important part of student life.

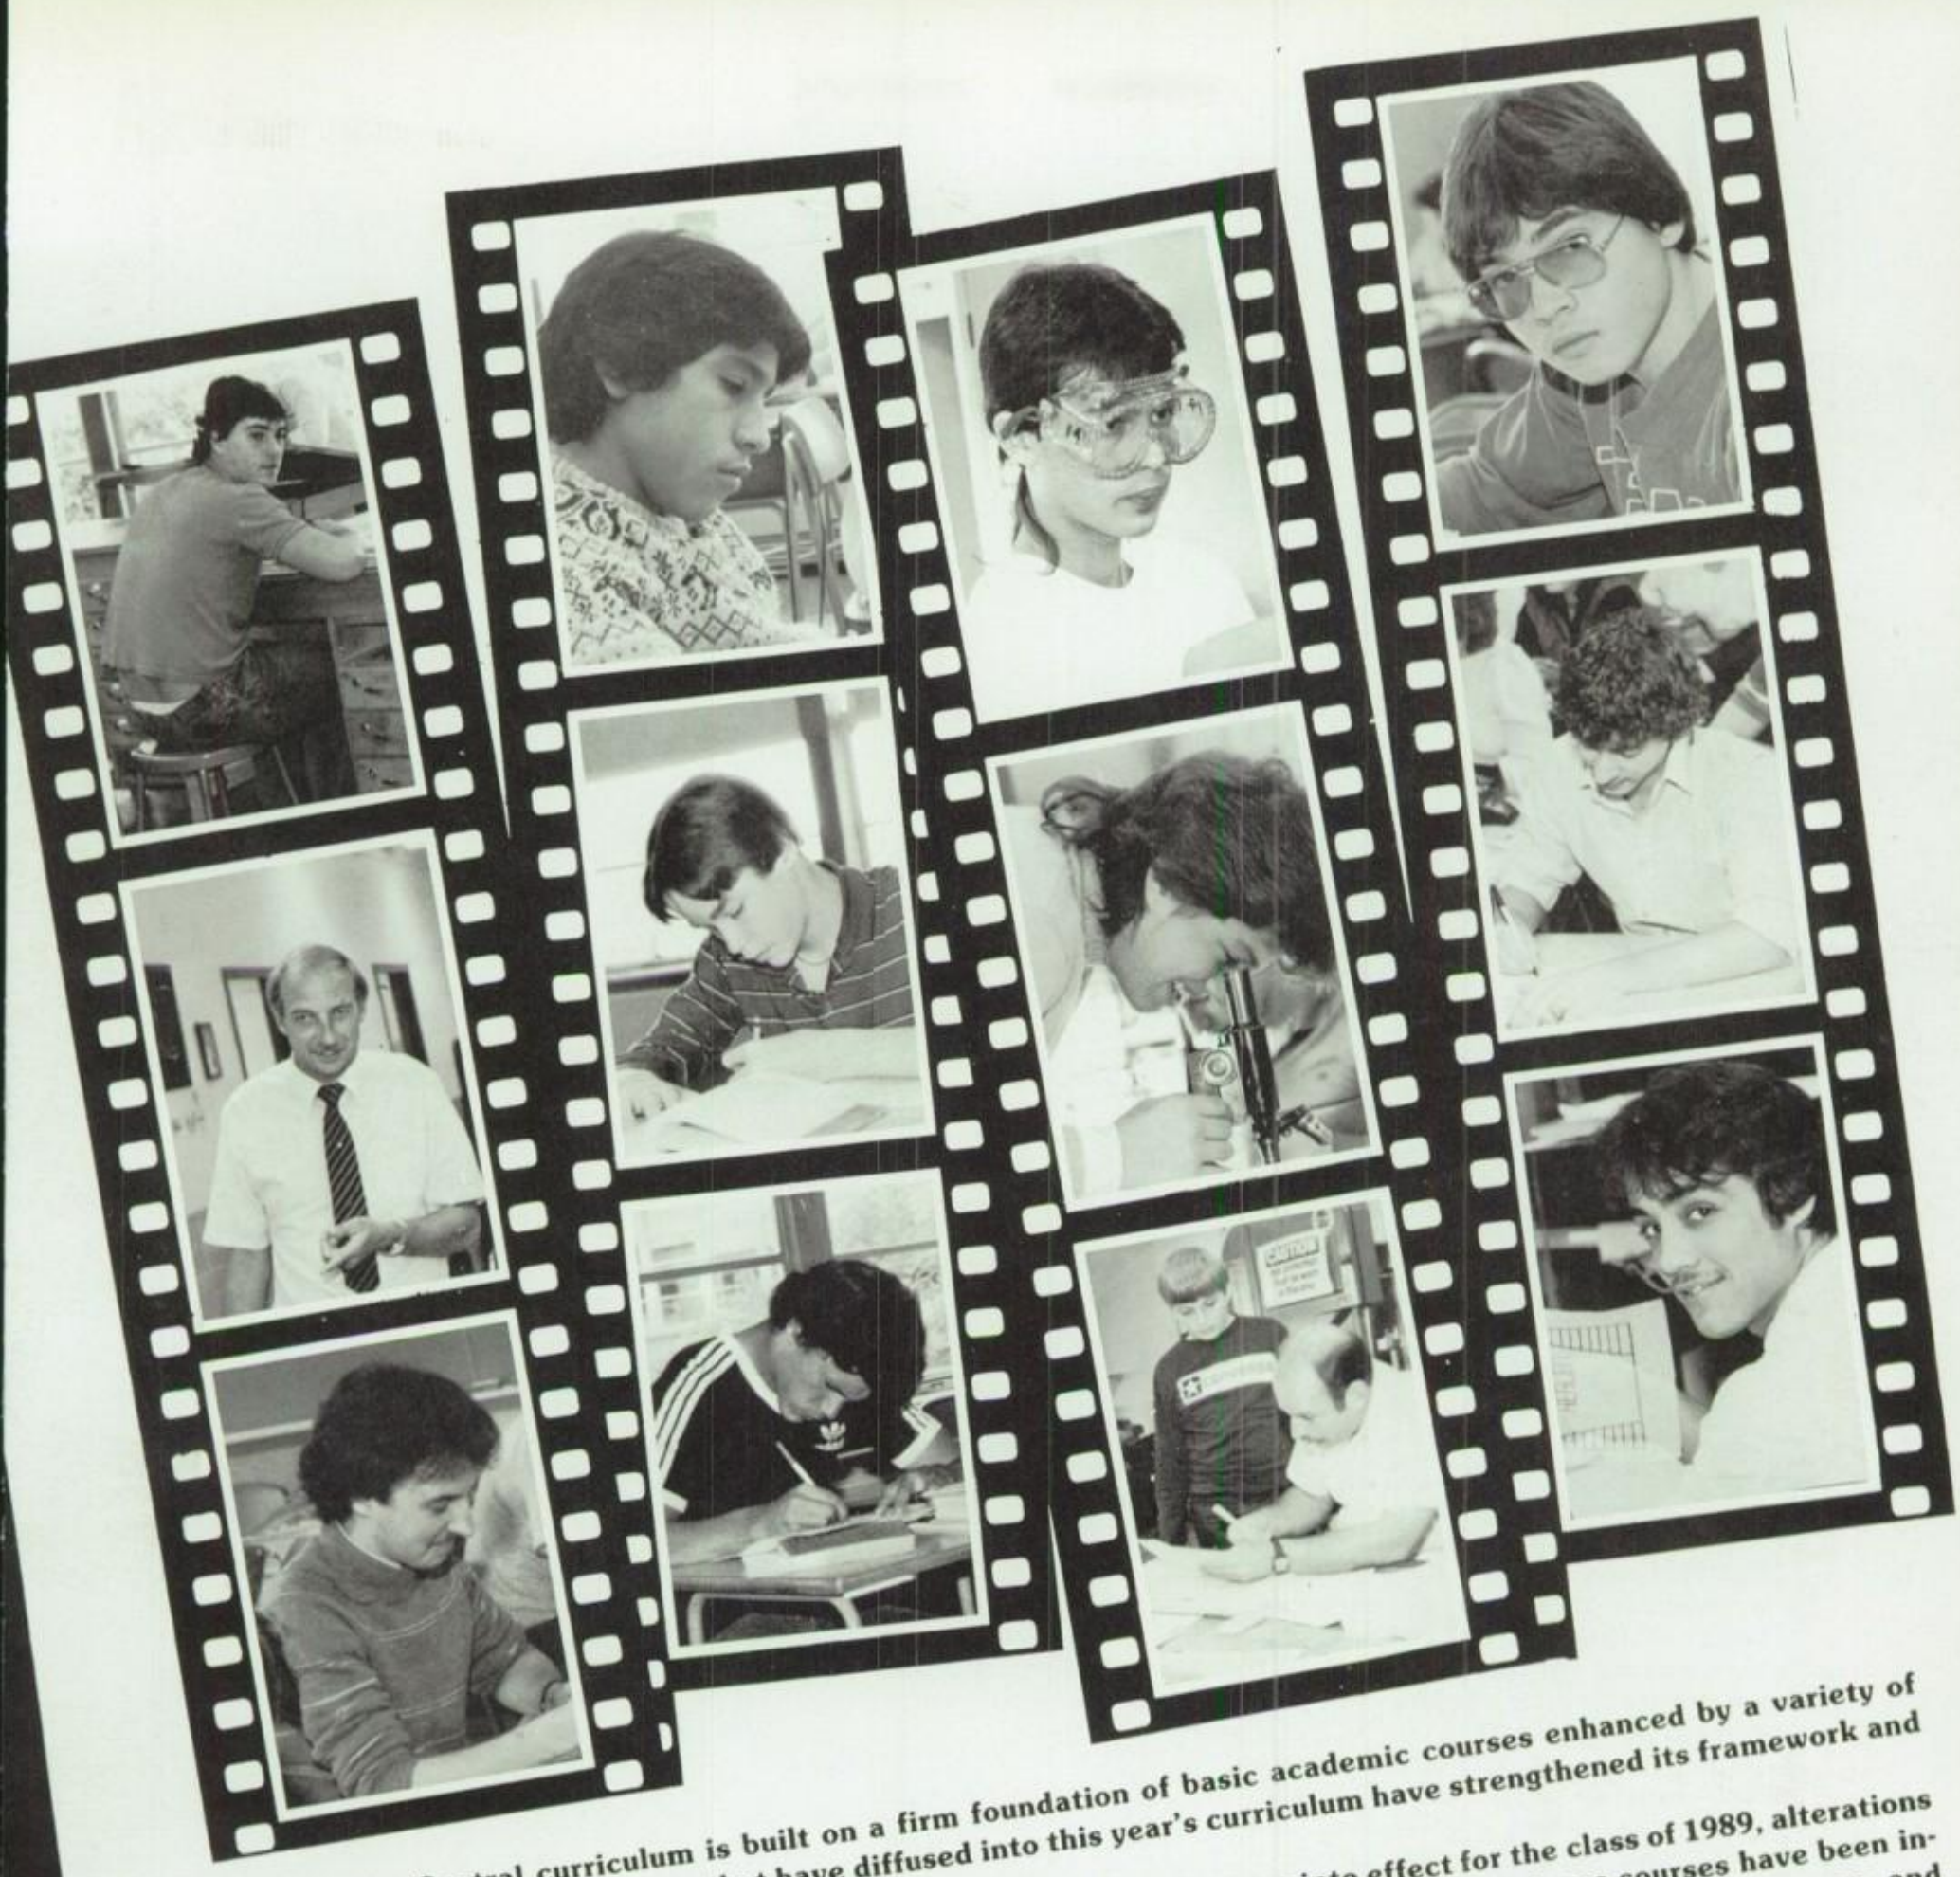
CURRICULUM



The Valley Central curriculum is built on a firm foundation of basic academic courses enhanced by a variety of class electives. The amendments that have diffused into this year's curriculum have strengthened its framework and have reflected the influence of a changing society.

In preparation for the New York State Regents Action Plan, which goes into effect for the class of 1989, alterations have been made in the curriculum. Additional foreign language classes and two new business courses have been integrated. The Social Studies Department is in the process of expanding into a fourth year social studies course, and next year, the Home Economics Department will begin teaching a variety of different classes.

Extending beyond mandatory courses, a student may choose from a diverse selection of course electives. For those with a creative streak, the art or music classes may provide a satisfying outlet. For the "hands-on" practical approach to learning, shop and auto body might spark some interest. For seniors who qualify, IBM sponsors a Co-op program and vocational educational programs are offered at BOCES.

With such a solid yet flexible curriculum, it is no wonder Valley Central produces so many well-rounded and knowledgeable students.

HOME EC

The Home Economics Department has become the domain of Mrs. Mary-Jo Budd, who is one of the newest members of our V.C. family. With her arrival at our high school came the plans to institute new programs to meet the changing needs of our students.

Courses which are presently offered include Dollars and Sense, Age Six — Going on Twelve, The House and What's In It, Fetal to Five, Good Food, Good Health!, and Your Clothing Reflects You. However, today's society often demands skills other than such basics as sewing and cooking, and a new schedule of varying classes will be offered to meet these needs.

Beginning in the 1985-86 school year, students will be able to select from the following subjects: Gourmet Cooking, Creative Food Preparation, Bachelor Survival, Marriage and Family, Color Me Beautiful, and Plan the Home of Your Future. The new courses to be taught by Mrs. Budd are sure to add to an understanding of today's lifestyles and to allow students to adapt to the continuous change in our world.

SHOP

Taught by Mr. Robert Brokaw, Mr. Robert Bond, and Mr. Peter Furey, shop gives students a chance to fuse creativity with practical knowledge. There are four different shop classes — auto, metal, wood, and electrical. Many exciting activitites and projects help the students to experience something outside of textbooks and homework.

Even though the shop rooms are located out of the mainstream of high school, they were and always will be a central part of student life.

MUSIC

Students try to find peaceful alternatives outside of school to release the tension of the combined worries of long classes and hard work. Some, however, retreat to the expressive and artistic world of the music department. Chorus and band offer excitement as well as challenge for the musically inclined individual.

The music department also provides the school with a kind of public relations organization. By performing in free concerts and marching bands, the music department allows the public to recognize Valley Central and its programs.

Mixed Chorus is open to anyone who wants to sing. A Cappella, a more competitive section, is designed for students with greater ability. Girls' Chorus is composed of a selected group of girls. Among these groups there are several students who compete in the New York State Scholastic Music Association competitions. There are also those who are fortunate enough to be accepted as members in either All County Chorus or Area-All State Chorus. The biggest revision is the change in chorus directors. Temporarily replacing Mrs. Bernadette Reichle is Miss Kimberly Betanzos.

Just when one hears the name, Mr. John Nash, his students think of the dynamic world of music. The best therapy is to go into a practice room, away from acting how one is supposed to act, to release your very soul and be carried away by your own sounds. You can express your ever shifting moods in a piece of music that reflects your ability and style. In the band, students are inspired to express themselves as both individuals and in group situations.

The year began with a heightened amount of confusion as the football season begins. The marching band was also invited to attend the Fireman's Parade, along with the usual football games and Veteran's Day Parade. At the end of the fall sports season, Marching Band was temporarily placed aside in order to assemble the Concert Band and Wind Ensemble. Together with the Flute Quartet, the two major bands successfully performed concerts in the winter and in the spring. In the special areas of competition, students traveled to other schools to try out for positions in highly selected bands such as Area All State, All State, All County, All County Jazz Ensemble, and NYSSMA. Everything falls in place just in time for June's Graduation Ceremony, followed by the yearly Band-Chorus Picnic.

With courses in painting and drawing, architecture, mechanical drawing, studio art, and ceramics, the art department gives students a chance to express themselves and develop their talent. Due to the Regents Action Plan, this department expects many changes to occur.

The objectives of the art department are being modified to go beyond regular art lessons and to educate the students in all aspects of art, to give students a greater appreciation of art, and to develop aesthetic judgement. There are courses geared to more widespread interests, and a variety of new interesting projects. The art department hopes to encourage more students to participate in art, both in school and to be aware of it in their future lives.

ENGLISH

"I hope my English grade is that high," thinks John Harrington as Miss Joan Downey hands Bill Hamilton his report card.

The language is timeless. The beauty of its literature is that it lives for all time. The years may change, the customs may change, but the language and literature remain the same — a reflection of mankind.

It is this concept of constancy within change that gives meaning to the teaching of language and literature. There are basics which must be covered in order that students might become active communicators in today's society. The universal themes of literature must be taught in order that our young men and women might fulfill themselves as human beings.

These are the goals of the English Department in this time of change.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Social Studies itself is a subject in constant transition. This department, headed by Mr. Edward Hart, is composed of ten well-informed teachers who are prepared to give their students a working knowledge of the changing lands around them. The wide variety of courses offered take students on a trip around the world both past and present. These include studies in: Afro Asian Cultures, European Culture, American Culture, college-level American History, the American Revolutionary War, sociology and psychology. The results of the final Regents examination show the extensive efforts put into these subjects by all involved.

MATH

The Math Department underwent a number of changes in 1985. Greatest of these changes was the addition of three new instructors: Miss Debra Santora, Mrs. Joan Bernadini, and Mr. James Robertson. Headed by Mr. Thomas Kneiser, this department, with its teaching staff of eight, offers courses ranging from general math to college-level calculus. Another part of the department includes a computer literacy class in basic programming. The class itself has expanded in equipment (from an original four computers to the present seventeen) and now also gives instruction in graphics and printers.

SCIENCE

The very essence of science is change. The study of science looks at change in its many forms and rates, from the cataclysmic earthquake to the slow evolution of the species. The observation of the fossil evidence gives meaning to the word "change" as the scientist measures the evolution of life forms on the earth. While the scientist observes these changes, he measures them in the light of certain basic truths which remain constant.

The work of the scientist and, therefore, science education, is to acquire these measuring skills and to develop an open attitude toward change.

The science program at Valley Central has attempted to grow and expand with the times. Recent years have witnessed the inclusion of new methods and materials in science education. The earth science program has incorporated the Self-Discovery approach to learning, and the biology program is following with its version of this effective teaching-learning technique. Self-Discovery places the student in the position of an actual scientist solving problems, measuring change-the work of science.

Chemistry and physics in the last several years have seen the acquisition of many new pieces of equipment to enhance learning in these vital areas. The most significant change, however, comes in the form of the computer audits application in the science program. Its use as a teaching tool, as well as its use as an evaluation and information storage mechanism, has produced and is continuing to cause major changes in science education at Valley Central and the country as a whole.

The next several years will see these changes continue with the addition of state mandated increases in the science curriculum. New York State science students will be required to study an additional year of science; therefore, look for increases in the numbers of science teachers and programs at Valley Central.

IBM BUSINESS

Each year, interested business students in the 11th grade are interviewed for the IBM Co-Op Program in East Fishkill. This one-year program provides valuable experience and a salary for its participants.

Students are selected on the basis of their application, interview, grade point average, business courses, attendance record, and teacher recommendations.

The senior students chosen to participate in the program attend classes in the morning and work at IBM in the afternoon. Their job responsibilities include: working with the IBM Personal Computers and Mag Card II, scheduling meetings, answering phones, typing, filing, making travel arrangements, copying and distribution, and mail logging.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

Spanish teachers Miss Elizabeth Brooks and Mrs. Mirta Tapanes "hablar" between themselves.

Offering French and Spanish, the two most popular romance languages, the foreign language department, under the direction of Miss Christine Cuomo, has expanded its classes as a result of the New York State Regents Action Plan, which will require a three year language sequence as a qualification for a Regents diploma.

Teaching French are Mrs. Celia Cornwell, warmly welcomed back to V.C., and Miss Liz Brooks. Miss Brooks also instructs Spanish courses along with her colleagues Mrs. Mary Digilio, Mrs. Mirta Tapanes and Miss Christine Cuomo.

With the increasing importance of a foreign language, the department will be strengthening its structure and enlarging its scope in the next few years.

B.O.C.E.S.

Better known as B.O.C.E.S., the Board of Cooperative Educational Services has its main headquarters located at the Orange County Educational Building in Goshen, N.Y. Every morning and afternoon, students spend half of the day learning one of the vocational skills offered in this program. Some of the more popular classes are auto body, auto mechanics, the L.P.N. program, cosmetology and food services.

A few students who attend B.O.C.E.S. don't take courses at the O.C. Ed. Building. The standard bred horse program, for example, meets at the Goshen Historical Track. For second year students, the capstone program lets them receive credit for working four days a week in their field and studying it one day at B.O.C.E.S.

The B.O.C.E.S. program provides an excellent opporunity for students to join the work force with a worthwhile skill after they graduate, or to go on and earn a degree in their field of study.

SPORTS

In his book, Sports in America, James A. Michener wrote, "Sports should enhance the health of both the individual participant and the general society." This idea can be seen in action at Valley Central.

Through their participation in athletics, players learn such virtues as pride, determination, and sportsmanship. They also enjoy the feeling of being part of a team. Even the individual sports, such as tennis and golf, require team-work to win.

In sports, the "tenth player" — or crowd — is of major importance. It can provide the necessary emotion to spur a team to victory. As spectators, students learn to respect other people and to both win and lose with grace and dignity.

It is because of these benefits that sports is and will remain an important part of an education at Valley Central.

The Valley Central Varsity Football team, under the leadership of Head Coach George Coates and his two assistants John Hunter and "Tinker" Bunting, along with the tri-captain combination of Bob Leary, Glenn Miller, and John Sohns ended the season with an 0 and 9 record.

The most memorable part of the season was the near victory by the Vikings over Pine Bush, a contender for the O.C.L. Championship. The game was a fight to the finish where by misfortune, the Vikings fell short of becoming "the Spoilers" of the O.C.L.

Although the team was unable to win a game this season, they possessed that special quality that made them champions in their own right, "stick-to-itiveness."

Each and every member of the squad hung in there together with a sense of pride and determination which proved that "winning isn't everything; it's how you play the game."

Under the supervision of Mr. John Walsh, the Varsity Basketball Team concluded another season. Though the team suffered many defeats, their overall hustle and determination was an inspiration to all that saw them play. The team, led by tri-captains: Eben York, Rich Troncone, and Jack Moreau stuck together and gave all they had in every game they played. They were a team in the true meaning of the word.

The highlight of their season came when they played against Minisink Valley. The team surged back from a five point deficit with thirty points in the 4th quarter to win their first game 61-52.

With a young J.V. team, that finished 13-5, the Vikings are looking ahead to the seasons to follow with much optimism and hopes that they can bring another O.C.L. championship to Valley Central.

Under pressure of having only one senior, Captain Alan Stapinsky, in the '84-'85 season, the Valley Central Wrestling Team had a surprisingly successful year. The Vikings had upset other schools with a young team.

"Youth paves the way to the future," feels Coach Robert Zifchock.

Jeff Lewis, a freshman, was an important part of the team, taking first place in the section nine tournament, enabaling him to represent V.C. in the state competition.

Some other key players were: Alan Stapinsky, who came in second, and Chris Goddard, who came in fourth in the section nine tournament.

The Valley Central Ski Team had another very successful season this winter. Under coaches Mike Costello and Craig McCoy, the Vikings worked very hard. It paid off, though, as both the boys and the girls finished second in the OCL.

After the long season, many VC skiers qualified for sectionals. These were Boys' Captain Marc Bucklen, Dave Hyun, Jon Roepe, Don Gridley, Mark Williams, Chris Miller, John C. Harrington; Girls' Captain Kathy Budd, Colleen Kennedy, Maria Williams, Lisa Di Bello, Dara McCarley, and Cathy Hutchinson. Congratulations on a fine year!

CLUBS

Is taking a "make-up" test the sole purpose of post-session? Certainly not. To break up the monotony of demanding classwork and study, students have found their niche in one or more of the variety of clubs and organizations at Valley Central. Many clubs have come and gone as a result of changes in student interest, yet all seem to have been successful during their existence.

Some clubs require hard work while others provide more leisure time. Ranging from academic clubs, service clubs, and honors programs to performance, artistic, and hobby clubs, each organization allows students to discover their forte while unwinding after the everyday tension. Aside from displaying a special talent, students also learn more about their particular subject of interest.

Dedication, participation and determination are the only requirements. The students have given the clubs importance and purpose while they in return have received the same.

This year forty-five students were inducted into Los Conquistadores, Valley Central's chapter of the National Spanish Honor Society. With such a large number of enthusiastic members, and two outstanding advisors, Mrs. Mary Digilio and Mrs. Mirta Tapanes, Los Conquistadores maintained its reputation as a very active club.

Meeting twice a month, the SHS successfully organized two major fund raising events: the Feast of the Three Kings and a candy sale. Portions of the proceeds from both activities went to support an eleven year old Mexican girl, Rosa Maria. The remainder of the money was used for the club's own enjoyment.

BETA TAU

Beta Tau is Valley Central's debating society. Its meetings are held in Advisor Mr. Hart's room on the second and fourth Thursdays of every month. Meetings are opened and suggestions for future topics are presented to the floor by President Mary Meisel or Vice-President Jack Moreau. Secretary Alayne Barnum takes attendance and counts votes for best junior and senior debaters. Treasurer Nicole DiCesare collects the yearly dues to pay for engraving the names of the best junior and senior debators on the Beta Tau plaque. A variety of topics were debated this year including abortion, the drinking age, and vivisection.

Gradus Honoris is Valley Central's chapter of the National Honor Society. It is composed of several of the finest students in the senior class. Membership in the society is considered by many to be the highest award presented to a high school student. Characteristics of the members include outstanding scholarship, service, leadership, and character. Students in the club are awarded special privileges, such as the use of the ever-popular "Grad pass" and "Grad table," which provide escape from the infamous, boring study hall.

Activities of Gradus Honoris include student tutoring, card sales, and ushering at several events. Near the end of the school year, the club takes its annual trip to the Concord Hotel in Kiamesha Lake. The thirty-four students on "Grad" are led by President TOM BONDUR, Vice-President ANDY BRINCKERHOFF, Treasurer KIP BARBER, Secretary JULIE ZWART, and Advisor MISS NELLIE BROWER.

LA SOCIÉTÉ HONORAIRE FRANCAIS

This year marked the change of La Société Honoraire Français with the return of Madame Cecilia Cornwell as the advisor. She, along with the aid of her officers, President Theresa Passarotti, Vice President Robin Nadeau, Treasurer Andrew Stephani and Secretary Teri Eisenhardt was able to conduct an extremely profitable year. These officers, all juniors, represented a shift from traditional senior rule.

Among the variety of fundraisers were the bake sales at the Maybrook Flea Market and the candy sales. The proceeds earned by the supportive members went towards the financing of the annual trip for all to enjoy and remember in the years to come.

The first SGA dance, accompanied by laughing, loud music, wild times, and of course, dancing, burst open the new school year. However, the student Government provides learning as well. Students elected to represent their homerooms participate in weekly meetings to voice the opinions and ideas of their classmates.

This year's Homecoming ceremony was as spectacular as ever with students cheering and having a wonderful time. Following was the Valentine's Day Dance which couples and singles alike attended.

Under the leadership of President Kirsten Stytzer and officers Dawn Youngs, Vice President; Debbie Steffanci, Secretary; John Ciardullo, Treasurer; and the guidance of Advisor Mr. Thomas Moglia, the SGA eagerly helped their community with a successful Christmas Food Drive among other activities.

There are still many devoted students at VC who give up their study halls to help the secretaries in the front and guidance offices. To aid Mrs. Irma Feld and Mrs. Pamela Horaz, these volunteers alphabetize, run errands, do clerical work, and some typing.

In the front office, the aides deliver messages, and packages, distribute attendance bulletins, file reports, type, and do other important tasks.

The assistance of these members is an invaluable service to both the secretaries and the school.

"My, don't we look pale today!!!" question the members of the Olympics of the Mind.

Olympics of the Mind is the club that challenges the brain with radical problems. Every year, problems are sent worldwide to schools everywhere, summoning creativity. There are short term problems which require quick, unusual answers and long term problems like building balsa structures and performing weird dramatizations. These are worked on for many months. Their mentor, Mr. Ciganek spurs enthusiasm among the participants. Straying from most of the physical aspects, these Olympics of the Mind put school against school, each trying to be more different than the next. This is the club that lets your imagination run as far as it can!

NURSE'S AIDES

The nurse's aides consist of a group of dedicated students who willingly assist the school nurse, Mrs. Schmitt. In doing so, they perform a countless number of tasks, everything from running errands to filing records.

This organization includes six members: Corina Spitz, Nancy Sawtelle, Thomas Downey, Kelley McManus, Stacy Lanspery and Darleen Pellicci. Though the group is small in number their work is invaluable.

Hidden behind a series of curtains are the people who light up the life of the Valley Central stage. Under the direction of advisor Mr. Robert Brokaw, they have gained knowledge to the workings of stage lighting panels, plugboards, spotlights and many other useful devices. These dedicated students then add their talents to school plays, choral and band productions, and festival of the arts programs.

Members of lighting crew are Edward Meisel, Mary Meisel, and advisor Mr. Robert Brokaw.

PHOTOGRAPHY/LIGHT CREW

The Photography Club meets every Tuesday after school. Headed by Mr. Taylor, its aim is to give interested students further insight into the art of photography. Some of the basic subjects Mr. Taylor discusses are how to take better pictures and how to develop them. Other intriguing subjects of the photography club include the method of mounting.

Teamwork, good talent, and multiple high scorers were the formula of success for this year's math club. The "A" team, led by Advisor Phil Shafer, soared to victory, as they were undefeated in the five meets they participated in against members of their own division.

They also placed an impressive second over all the teams in their entire league, consisting of Orange, Ulster, Dutchess, and Sullivan counties. With the best record achieved by the team in years under their belts, they headed off to the finals at Orange County Community College.

The "B" team, consisting of the team's younger and less experienced players, also did respectably well this year and showed great promise for next year's team.

By the end of the year, math club members had strengthened their math skills, realized the fruits of practice and teamwork, and really enjoyed themselves in the process.

With the help of Miss Barbara Meyers, the 1984-85 cheerleaders gave spirit and pride to the football and basketball games to produce a lively and competitive atmophere for the Vikings. The captains, Kim Kreppein and Andrea Kniffin, for Varsity Football; Heather McLean and Jane McDermott, for Varsity Basketball; and Stephanie Pajonk and Gail Zwart, for Junior-Varsity Basketball; spent many long and exasperating afternoons working with their squads to perfect their many cheers and mounts in order to produce the effect created at each game.

The help of all the cheerleaders at the two Pep Rallies, which were held for the first time this year, was greatly appreciated by Mr. Hugh Hurst, the athletic advisor, and the whole school. They enthralled enthusiasm into the spectators which wouldn't have been achieved without them. Special appreciation should be given to Heather McLean and Jane McDermott who were the Masters of Ceremony for the Winter Sports Pep Rally.

Revelation, the literary magazine of Valley Central, expresses the students' emotions and provides an outlet for their creativity. This year's theme is "Spectrum: Emotions that color our world." The staff was extremely excited about this year's publication and worked eagerly to make Revelation 1985 the best one yet.

Under the auspicious leadership of Advisor Mrs. Janet Di Bello, the staff met every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in Room 217. There, the committee planned the magazine and decided which material would be published.

Once a month, a select group of students, chosen on the basis of their high PSAT scores, get a savory taste of culture. These students are members of the Orange County Enrichment Program, part of a program including Valley Central and five other schools from the Mid-Hudson area. The group is led by Coordinator Eldred Ross.

Enrichment's many excursions included a trip to the Ashokan Environmental Center, where the students from each district got acquainted with each other, a trip to New York City to see the Broadway musical, "The Three Musketeers," and two other return visits to the Big Apple to see the "Nutcracker Suite," performed by the New York City Ballet, and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra.

Other events included VC's introduction of Herman Pollack, a professor specializing in space exploration. The members expressed their creativity with an innovative skit involving a bunch of burned out punk rockers inhabiting a strange planet. The group ended the year with a special dinner at West Point which everyone enjoyed profoundly.

VIKING LOG

The purpose of a yearbook is to preserve our memories. This was achieved by the 1984-85 Viking Log.

Using the theme of "Changes," the staff endeavored to produce an unforgettable record of the school year. Some of the many alterations that were present in the yearbook were new sections; for example, a section on student life outside of Valley Central was added, showing people both at work and at play. A greater number of color pages are also present in the largest yearbook ever produced by the school.

Under the leadership of two people who gave of themselves selflessly, Miss Lena Lease and Mr. John Calvey, the staff worked diligently to prepare this yearbook. Numerous late night work sessions were devoted to layouts, write-ups, headlines, picture selection, and many other tedious tasks. At times, the staff didn't know if it was Tuesday or Pittsburgh. However, amidst all this hard work, chaos and confusion in Room 205, whenever the tension became too great, a sudden outbreak of jokes and crazy captions filled the air. The staff also took time out to enjoy pizza, Oreos, and much of Miss Lease's delicious Italian cooking. With full stomachs, the students were ready to return to their various jobs, keeping in mind the importance of meeting a deadline.

The Viking Log is a collection of the events that occurred during the past year and each event is remembered with fondness. So, as the students end one chapter of their lives and "turn and face the changes" and embark on new ventures, they know they will always have Valley Central to look back on in their hearts as presented by the Viking Log.

"Will this index ever be done?" thinks Sue Holbert.

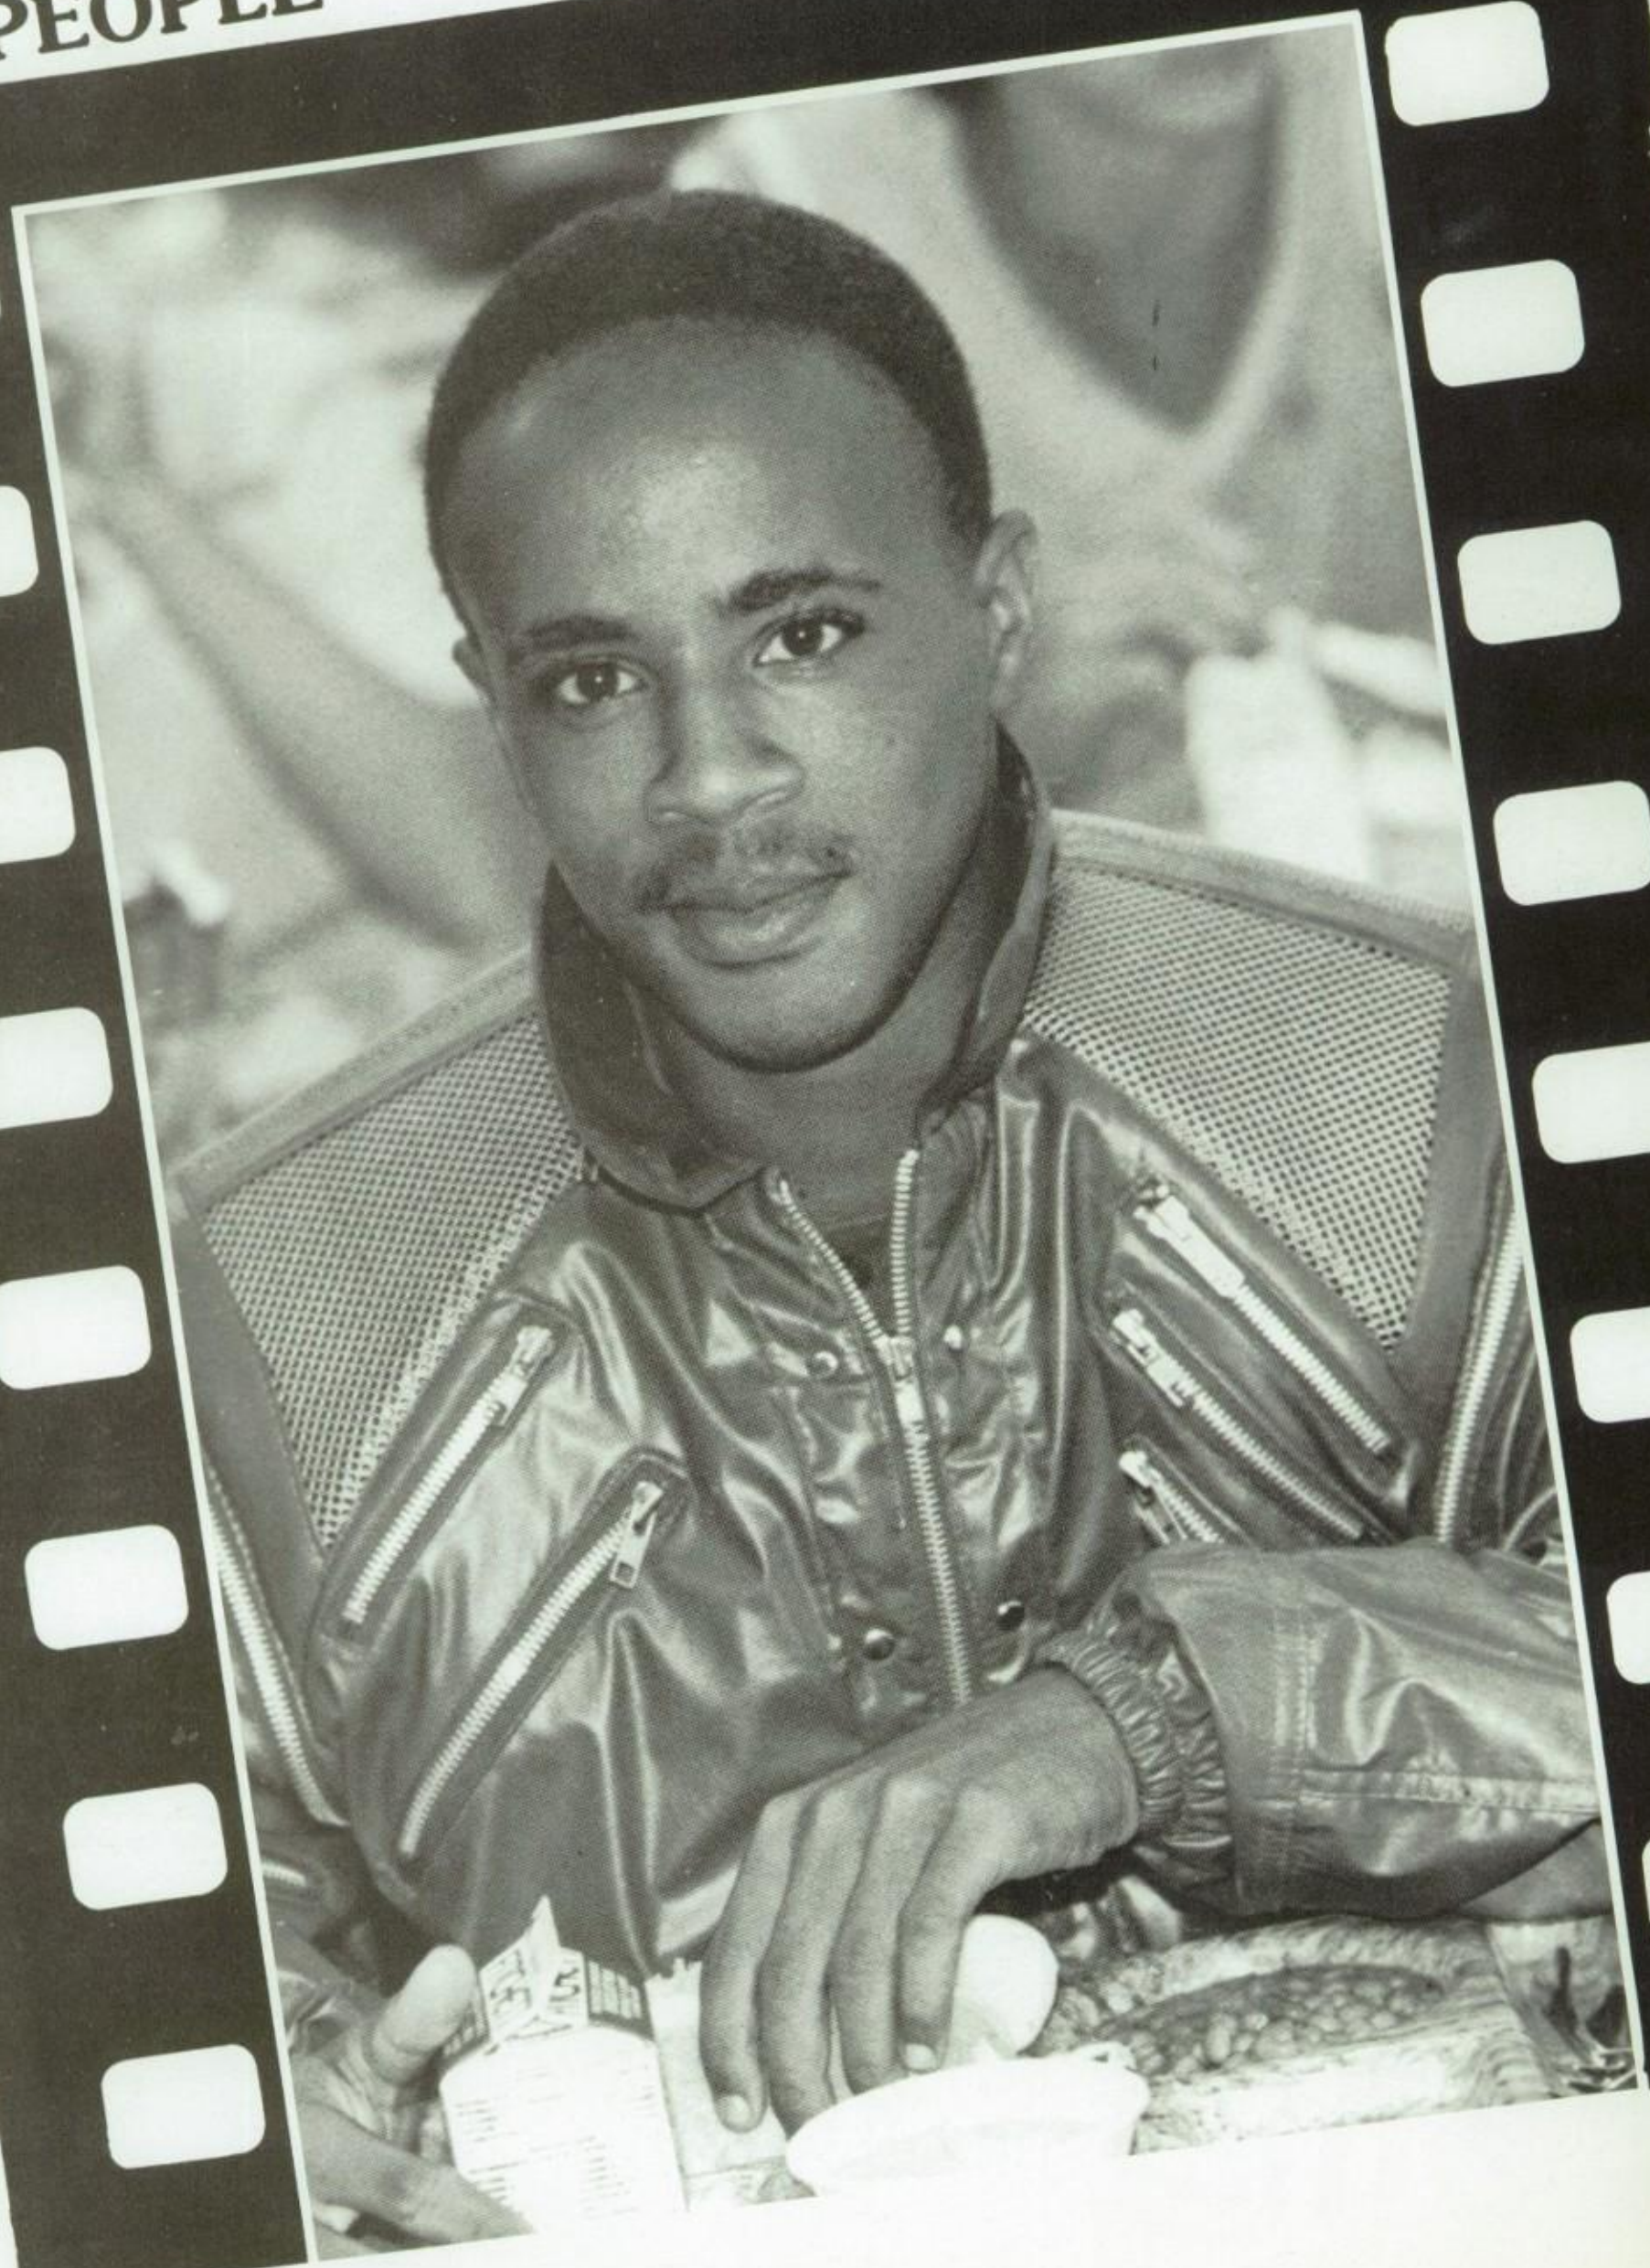
PEOPLE



For four years students and faculty are linked together with the common goal of educating minds. However, much of the knowledge gained does not come from books, and it extends far past a four year time limit. What is the source of this hidden knowledge? The answer is people.

Old familiar faces blend with the young new ones in contributing to our life experiences and who we are. The interaction between people enhances the exploration of our own character and opens new horizons to us. Though the members of Valley Central come from a variety of backgrounds, and the differences in personalities are numerous, friendships are often formed and thrive in this environment of learning.

A unique aspect of V.C. is the personal touch added by its faculty members. Teachers are willing to give a part of themselves. They recognize students as growing individuals and are ready to encourage them outside the classroom, whether it be in clubs, sports, advice or just a friendly chat.

People are the most important and special part of high school life. These people include classmates, friends, faculty and just about everyone we come in contact with. They are with us through the good times and the bad. Those who surround us become an unforgettable part of ourselves both present and future.

Victor Haggar

A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS

In the autumn of 1963, Mr. Haggar came to Valley Central. He had spent his earlier years in education as a math teacher in Worcester, Massachusetts; as headmaster at the Nyack Boys' School; as a guidance dean at Eastchester High School in Westchester County. A native of West Virginia who spent his early life in Worcester, Mr. Haggar completed his undergraduate and graduate degrees at Clark University.

By the very nature of the job, a high school principal must be a man for all seasons — and a jack of all trades. In addition to the very visible work of education — scheduling, supervision and administration of staff, budgeting, working with students and parents, there are the many unseen tasks performed by the principal. In all facets of the work of principal, Mr. Haggar has shown himself to be very capable and most dedicted.

Valley Central has truly grown educationally during his tenure. The high school, under his firm and fair hand, has shown evidence of this dediction to the ideals of scholarship. Valley Central has had a splendid record in the number of its National Merit Scholarships; the number of New York State Regents Scholarships has grown during his twenty-two years. The advanced placement program has been encouraged and nurtured by him. Valley Central has seen a steady growth in the number of Regents diplomas granted and in the number of students going on to college. More and more students have also taken advantage of the vocational education program at B.O.C.E.S. during Mr. Haggar's years as principal.

A truly amazing quality of Mr. Haggar is the fact that he attends just about every event in which Valley Central is involved — and not just as a spectator. As advisor to the Valley Central Scholarship Council, a group founded and guided by Mr. Haggar which has been responsible for raising funds for scholarships for V.C. seniors, he has been the strong hand behind the annual Antique and Art Show. In 1984, some $15,000 was raised by the group. Another fund raising activity of the scholarship council is providing refreshments at football and basketball games. Mr. Haggar has shown his skill at both grill and coffee pot.

There is not a game, concert or performance that Mr. Haggar does not attend. He has shown, not in words, but in deeds, that he is V.C.'s number one fan. From the first day of classes each September, through each of the seasons of our school year, to the glorious and traditional V.C. graduation ceremony, he has been there for us. He is V.C.

As Mr. Victor Haggar heads into retirement, the Valley Central family wishes him joyous days, many years and the happiness and contentment he so richly deserves. Ad multos annos!

BOTTOM: As he takes time to dictate a letter to Mrs. Estelle Schoonmaker, Mr. Victor Haggar shows his constant interest in school affairs.
BELOW: All things look well for Mr. Joe Bayno after a meeting with the principal, Mr. Victor Haggar.
RIGHT: "That looks like a delicious lunch," comments Mr. Victor Haggar to Mrs. Edith Burrows.

Obviously interested in the selection of magazines is principal Mr. Victor Haggar.

Always eager to be of service, Mr. Victor Haggar is ready to face the next problem that arises.

Standing at the end of their high school career, the members of the Class of 1985 reflect on the past four years of change and the activities which surrounded them.

The change from middle school to high school is an awesome one for all students. The Class of '85 was no different. Acting a bit hesitant at first, they were soon eager to become involved. With the help of Freshmen Advisor Mr. Wesley Love, they elected their first class president, Toni Tari and Officers Kecia Kellogg, Jill VanCook, and John McManus. The class organized and held their first successful candy sale, and they were proud of their first Homecoming decoration, "The Freshmen Connection."

As sophomores, they now knew their way around. It was with the leadership of President Hassan Lewis, along with Officers Cathy Hutchinson, Stacy Lanspery, Kenny McKenna, and the pep talks of Advisor Mr. Joseph DiLorenzo, that they started a campaign for sophomore spirit. The result was a variety of fund raisers: the candy, the bake, and the candy-apple sales. Numerous celebrations: a ski trip, a social and the first place victory of their Homecoming hallway decoration, "Stairway to Graduation," were held.

"Love is . . . learning together," was the theme of their winning display the following year. It expressed he class's feelings for the busy junior year ahead of hem. Filled with PSAT's, SAT's and a heavy course oad, it was very challenging. School work was not all hat kept the Juniors busy. The year saw an incredible umber of interesting activities: the magazine sale, onor society inductions, the arrival of school rings, he Soiree, and the first Junior-Senior Ball. hroughout it all, Advisor Mrs. Lorraine Kittell, Presi- lent Sharon Neill, and Officers Cathy Hutchinson, indy Johnson, Sandi Kelder, Therese Galazzo, and enny McKenna directed and planned.

Returning to VC in September of '84 as seniors, they njoyed their newly acclaimed status. For the third onsecutive year, they proudly held first place in the omecoming competition with "Seniors Spin a Webb f Wisdom." Aside from the wisdom, they were very usy with the Senior-Faculty Tea, Blood Drive, order- ng announcements, Antique and Art Show, Senior inner, and lastly, the Junior-Senior Ball. These vents were all organized and directed by Advisor Mr. ohn Calvey, President Cindy Johnson, and Officers athy Hutchinson, Kathy Budd, Sandi Kelder, Kenny cKenna, Jon Roepe, Robert Leary, Angela Radulski, nd Sharon Neill. The senior year was an unforgettable onclusion to a very memorable four years of learning, rowth and a great deal of change.

Friday afternoon, November 9, 1984, marked the beginning of Homecoming 1984 and the revival of a long-forgotten tradition, the Pep Rally.

School spirit was overflowing in the halls of Valley Central while signs suggested that everyone "get psyched." It soon became apparent that students and faculty alike had really taken this advice to heart. All were at the Pep Rally dressed in a wide variety of football jerseys in various shades of blue. The gym was filled with spirited Vikings. The cheers were loud and clear in support for the home team. Enthusiasm rang out as the Gridders charged in with incredible determination very similar to that seen at the next day's game.

The following evening, the celebration ended with the unforgettable sparkle and style of the Homecoming Dance. The night was one of dancing, socializing, and special events. First on the agenda was the announcement that the Senior Class had won the hall decorating contest for the third consecutive year. This winning decoration was based on the myth of Arachne. Next, the Juniors cheered as they learned that Atlas came in second.

The climax of the evening was the long awaited announcement of the court. Jon Roepe and Laurie Valk presided as king and queen with Juniors Jack Moreau and Debbie Cummings, Sophomores Brian Sharp and Robin Long, and Freshmen Chris Palfy and Jill Secor as princes and princesses.

The day of December 10, 1984, brought a new experience for a number of Valley Central seniors. These caring students gave their first blood donation.

An atmosphere of camaraderie developed as the nervous "victims" encouraged one another in their contribution to the worthy cause. One could frequently view the tense donors as they entered the so-called "death zone" only to emerge with a triumphant grin, munching on Oreo cookies, and proudly wearing stickers to signify their considerate deed.

Thanks to the dedicated efforts of the senior class officers, the blood drive started at 8:30 a.m. and ran smoothly until its end at 2:00 p.m. During the course of this five hour period, the students, through their donation of ninety-three pints of blood, displayed a concern for others and wholeheartedly gave "the gift of life."

HOLIDAYS

The holiday season entered our high school early this year with its gifts of joy and good will.

Celebration began with the annual food drive sponsored by S.G.A. Students put tremendous effort into collecting, counting and packaging canned goods. In their caring dedication, they raised over one-half ton of food and gave many needy families a very memorable Christmas.

This giving spirit was also accompanied by a decorative atmosphere. The school became a holiday picture of red, green and gold. The picture was completed with the sight of carolers singing their tunes around a very special Christmas tree. It was a tree very different from those of years past because it was decorated with memories. Between the bulbs of blue and shining lights were ornaments hand-made from pictures of the past. Both this tree and the Christmas changes brought a very merry and unforgettable holiday.

CENTER LEFT: Seniors Heather McLean, Lisa Delaney, John Harrington, Kim Greening, and Glenn Miller lend a helping hand in loading boxes into the FISH truck for distribution.

BELOW LEFT: "I wonder how tall I am?" thinks Jolie Van Dam as she fills out the cap and gown form.
BELOW RIGHT: Busy filling out their cap and gown forms are Richard Troncone, Keith Griffin and Dennis Shields.
BOTTOM: "My! What a big head you have!" remarks Mr. Timothy McGinty to Dave Hyun.

"I live for school!" exclaims an enthusiastic Skip Luft.

"C'mon Greg, smile!" coaxes Lynn Whitney of Greg Maroney.

A cheerful Mr. Victor Haggar welcomes the "Princess" (Mrs. Stell Schoonmaker) back from a hearty lunch.

"Now VCHS, next the New York Philharmonic" hopes Mr. John Nash.

"Just because you're a yearbook photographer doesn't mean you don't have to study," laments Lori Schick.

IN APPRECIATION

MRS. GERTRUDE FLAX

In the seven years Mrs. Flax has been at Valley Central, many changes have taken place. Many laws have come and gone; from the raising of the drinking age, to the insistence that we secure our children in safety belts. She has seen typewriters change from manual to those that will correct mistakes for you!

But the truly important things have remained constant; her unending patience, understanding and unchanging good nature.

Mrs. Flax has taught us to type to broaden our education, and she's taught us the law so we might become better, more responsible citizens.

On behalf of the class of 1984, I present you with this gift, a mere token of our tremendous appreciation and the wish that you're retirement will bring to you the happiness you've brought to us.

MRS. LORRAINE KITTELL

Do you realize that you could own a home on the Riviera, a condo in Palm Springs or a medium sized yacht? During your years as Junior Advisor, $250,000 worth of magazines have been sold — the resulting premiums to the class treasuries have been $90,000, the money which has enabled 15 junior and senior classes to hold all of their activities. For this we are deeply grateful.

Tonight we have had many laughs. We hope, Mrs. Kittell, that you and Mr. Kittell have enjoyed. But, there is a time for laughter and a time for serious thought. You have given selflessly of yourself not only to our class, but to the many classes who have come before us. The time and energy you have devoted to teas, social soirees, and balls, dinners and magazine drives has been, I assure you, deeply appreciated.

May I, not only in the name of the class of 1984, but also in the names of all those classes which preceded us, thank you for your kindness, wisdom, and guidance.

We hope that your years of retirement will be many, healthy, and happy. This special gift for you is a token of our esteem and our gratitude. May God bless you.

(Remarks delivered at the 1984 Senior Dinner)

MR. ROBERT BROKAW

It is not possible to truly realize the depth of Mr. Robert Brokaw. He has taught at Valley Central since 1939 — forty-six years! His students have known him as master craftsman in the field of wood and excellent teacher in wood and electronics. But he is so much more. For many years Mr. Brokaw made all the sets for our dramatic and musical productions and was in charge of lighting for all plays, concerts and assemblies. In his early years of teaching, Mr. Brokaw was our assistant football coach.

In his life outside of school, Mr. Brokaw has sung with many glee clubs and choirs; he is an accomplished dancer; he reads widely and is a patron of the arts: theater, opera, ballet, painting, sculpture, etc. He is truly a renaissance man.

For all that you are, for all that you have given to each one of us — thank you, Mr. Brokaw.

MR. ALBERTUS PAULES

Some men live history; some men teach history. It is the rare man who lives the action and passion of history and who also teaches it. Mr. Paules is that man.

Widely read in history and actively involved in the political action of our day, Mr. Paules has brought this knowledge and experience to his classroom. History has lived in Room 122. The remark of a recent college graduate tells more about his prowess as a teacher than any flowery statements could: "I learned more from Mr. Paules in one month than I did in two years of college history courses."

For your knowledge and experience, thank you for your patience and wit in introducing us to the vast stage of history — our thanks to you, Mr. Paules.

SPECIAL THANKS

The VIKING LOG staff would like to extend a special thanks to the numerous people who gave so much of themselves to this publication. We greatly appreciate the time and effort they dedicated to this 1985 book of CHANGES.

THANK YOU!

MR. VICTOR HAGGAR: for the patience and support you so willingly gave.

MRS. ESTELLE SCHOONMAKER: for your care and generosity in lending your skills to us both day and night.

SECRETARIES: for your constant supply of lists, papers and the answers to our many questions.

TEACHERS: who took the time out of their busy schedules to aid us in our frequent requests.

MR. JOHN RYAN: for your instruction and assistance in printing the VIKING LOG.

DAVIS STUDIOS: for the use of your talented photographers and developing our film in record time.

DAWN LUCY and HEATHER McLEAN: for literally working your fingers to the bone by helping with so much of our typing.

MRS. DIANE RUGGLES and her TYPING CLASSES: for your cooperation in making the typing of this yearbook a part of your lessons.

MR. KEVIN MCFADDEN: for your creativity in writing copy.

AP ENGLISH: for your creativity in writing both copy and captions.

MISS LENA LEASE: for your belief in us, your expertise, patience and caring, your delicious Italian cuisine, and for finding humor in even the most frustrating circumstances, you brought a special quality to the VIKING LOG.

MR. JOHN CALVEY: for your devotion, your superior guidance, your insistence upon perfection, the many sacrifices you made on our behalf, and for your determination to create a truly memorable VIKING LOG, you were the driving force behind its success.

BELOW: "If you think this is bad, you should see my room!" remarks Mr. John Calvey to Miss Lena Lease.
LOWER LEFT: On the prowl, Kip Barber is in search of his next victim.

ABOVE: Yearbook typist Heather McLean also assisted in doing layouts.

BELOW: "We like pizza, but it doesn't like us!" moan Mary Meisel, Sandi Kelder, Sharon Neill, and Bob Leary.
MIDDLE LEFT: Diligently working to meet their deadline are John Sohns and Sharon Neill.
BOTTOM: "When the cat's away, the mice do play," as shown by Doug Smith, devouring Mr. Calvey's cake.
LEFT: "This job's so bad, I need a double dose of caffeine," remarks Lady Lease.
MIDDLE: To Lauri Malley, Sharon Neill, and John Nabagiez, the past is only a page away.

"Time may change me
But I can't trace time . . ."
David Bowie

Changes are the essence of life, forever riding the waves of th sea of time: altering, transforming and modifying the world i which we live. Like the child who spends a day at the beach diligently creating a sand castle, only to discover that, eventually merciless waves will crumble it to pieces, so are we constantly en countering disillusionment within ourselves and within our dreams But also like that persistent child, we begin again, filling our pail with courage and strength, with wisdom and honesty, to construc stronger and better castles until we have achieved the ideal citadel

"Changes come around real soon — make us women and men . . ."
John Cougar-Mellencamp
